Update: Horde in Darkshire

Forces Converge in Duskwood

5.1.2020

Darkshire, Duskwood

Contributor: Lorewalker Joenn

The ongoing conflict in Duskwood continues to escalate as more interested parties gather in Darkshire to address the Horde's presence. Armed clashes between Alliance and Horde mercenaries are becoming more frequent as information comes to light about their motives.

On the 22nd, an Alliance scout reported that a meeting was taking place among the Horde parties' leadership in their fortified camp of Stonard in the Swamp of Sorrows. Roughly a dozen representatives met with their leader, a Forsaken mage named Corvin Byrne.

Four days later, the Remnants of Hope arrived in Darkshire to answer the town's call for aid. There they met with Vigilante Nocturno, who had already signed a contract with the town council to provide protection.

This meeting drew the attention of the nearby Horde, who launched a series of brazen guerilla assaults on the town that evening. Although the combined Alliance forces repelled them, many civilians were killed or wounded during the attacks.

News of the event spread to Stormwind, and on the 1st of the new month The Ashen Vale arrived in Darkshire to lend their aid as well. They met with the Remnants and the Vigilantes in the town hall to discuss how they would respond to the Horde's aggression.

During the talks, an anonymous source revealed that the Horde has been using the Swamp of Sorrows as a staging ground for an expedition into the Blasted Lands. Their goal is to retake the Dark Portal.

The meeting was interrupted when one of the Vigilantes spotted a Horde spy observing the town hall. Though no attack took place that evening, the Alliance defenders are now making preparations for the next stage of the conflict.

Chief's Corner

Greetings all!

I am reading more and more articles like the one about Duskwood. Why is there escalation? We should be visiting one another with open arms. Telling tales in Suramar... a student exchange.

Perhaps I should remind you of the tale of a village on the coast of Highmountain, Fel wracked and utterly destroyed, because no one came to help them, neither Horde nor Alliance.

The time that is coming, we must be strong together.

Earth Mother watch over us!

While the Tribe strives for peace in a war-torn world, they are willing to stomp out all the campfires across Azeroth, because they are not on the menu tonight! So, until the alliance start fishing and stop hunting Shu'halo, this is the Tribe that will stop you. They enjoy boating, especially gliding out to sea in those nice galleons sitting in the Boralus harbor, mountain climbing from Dun Morogh to the peaks of Kul-Tiras, and they always enjoy a good fight! The Tribe enjoys BBQ, as well, and will bring plenty of Firewater to share with friends... Do you want to be friends? Or enemies? The choice is yours!

Tales from an Alternate Time

Thunder Bluff Festival of Peace

Click for Calendar

5.1.2020-5.2.2020 Mulgore

What is the Festival of Peace?

There are some that did not stop to think that there is more to peace than thinking of Horde and Alliance relations...

There is peace to be made between tribes, for as some are aware there are struggles even among the Shu'halo leaders.

There is also the growing of Peace between races thrown together against the threats and violence of the Alliance, or the Centaur, or even other Troll and Orc counterparts.

Alliance Representatives Enjoyed Opening Speeches

The Festival of Peace is about sharing culture and beliefs, not to convert others, but to expose ourselves; for the Shu'halo have nothing to hide on the Bluffs where they reside.

In a surprise move, Okwaho Skyseer, organizer of this years festivities, invited other races to partake, Trolls assisting in the opening performance, Forsaken and Orcs assisting with outstanding cuisine, ale and desserts, as well as Lieto, of Hand of Lordaeron's Profane Reach speaking of the bonds of Forsaken and Shu'halo.

Kodo March

Fishing, Shu'halo craftsmanship, Blessings of Armor and Weapons by one of the new Elders of the Tribes, Sauromoon were among many of the authentic experiences visitors experienced on the Bluffs.

Finally it was time to march the Kodo from the Bluffs to Bloodhoof Village where Elder Stan Flametotem said a final blessing on the festivities before dancing broke out as Mu'sha rose high overhead.

Festival of Peace: The Underground

And then... the Thunder Bluff of rumors and conjecture came to life as Mu'sha rose on the second night of the Festival of Peace.

Why is this Troll jumping off the Bluffs?

An Owlkin in the Pipe of Peace Longhouse?

Event organizer claims he was slipped narcotics and was later seen imbibing copious amounts of ale with the late Father Lyle Brooks in the Pools of Vision where he found an Owlkin, who seemed on the verge of being skewered by the Chieftain and Guardian Taharkah... as Okwaho put it later, they were about to have BBQ chicken, so he rescued the Owlkin since it was still part of the Peace Festival.

Attendees of the Festival claim that the Owlkin was earlier in the guise of a Shu'halo encouraging participants to plunge to their deaths and continued to be up to some mischief, selling dangerous explosives.

If none of the above makes any sense, you should come to next year's Festival of Peace to experience the Underground for yourself.

Earthmother's Day

5.10.2020 Freewind Post, Thousand Needles

Elder Sauromoon welcomed all to the Earthmother's Day Celebration in Thousand Needles.

Moving speeches and loving words were shared by attendees as they showed gratefulness for the Horde, each other, and the bounty given to all by the Earth Mother.

After thanks were given, many stayed behind to strengthen bonds, while others joined Redwood for their weekly Roadhouse, this night in the port town of Ratchet.

No Days Off in Durotar

05.03.2020 Jaggedswine's Farm, Durotar

The aroma of BBQ pork, and especially the Seer's favored sweet and sour honey bacon recipe delighted many a Roadhouse visitor, especially as many relived the experiences of the previous days Peace Festival.

And then... the Dwarves of Clan Battlehammer arrived. The Clan was apparently celebrating being companions for 11 turns of Azeroth and they were looking for a fight. They seemed as surprised as Redwood to be at Jaggedswine's Farm instead of testing the gates of Orgrimmar just up the road, but as the last dregs of ale were drunk and tossed aside, both Redwood, and later the Hand of Lordaeron with a few others from Orgrimmar, and Clan Battlehammer engaged in an all out tussle and battle of wills. Neither conceded until long into the night, knowing that many more battles are to come.

Our congratulations to these long-lived Dwarves!!! We will definitely cross paths again!

No, you can not have our bacon!

Hand of Lordaeron Inductions

The Drama Unfolds

5.04.2020 Throne Room, Undercity

The Tribes, Outriders, and many more crowded the Throne Room of Undercity, or the Old Throne Room of Lordaeron to witness the induction of new members of the Hand of Lordaeron. A joyous occasion and one which many Tribes members were interested in seeing in order to learn more of Forsaken customs.

As the inductions ended, it appeared that one member would be moving from one branch to another which caused some upheaval between the Leader, self proclaimed Death Lord Lucian, and Mortrath Father Lyle Brooks... an upheaval that ended with the Death Lord slicing the Mortrath nearly in twain.

As the body fell, the Death Lord's dreadguards hastened him away when the crowd of onlookers rushed forward one half towards him, and the other half hastening to try to save their friend.

For Lyle Brooks had befriended many and the trial that awaits Lucian will test the limits of not only the Hand of Lordaeron but many comrades of the Horde!

Moonglade Murder Mystery

4.29.2020 Above Red Rocks, Mulgore

Dead Druids, Three suspects. Elders Nby and Skybreaker looked to the Tribes and Allies to help determine which of the three subjects, Elder Pogo'pogo, Tribesman Shen Circlebreaker, or Councilor Master Gin'jojo were the murderer.

A Beautiful View, a Nefarious Purpose

A Beautiful View, a Nefarious Purpose

Skybreaker led the way up the cliffs of Mulgore and to Red Rocks Cave where the evidence was presented.

Many were certain that Master Gin'jojo, who was not only outspoken against the Druid Code, but had killed, in coldblood, an Alliance Druid in Moonglade while on a different mission the Redwood's had undertaken.

Some of the evidence was suspect, especially a blood soaked glove, but-all the evidence had been obtained while investigating three additional deaths in Moonglade.

Shock spread through the onlookers as eventually it was Pogo'pogo... who leapt to Master Gin'jojo's defense, but then gave himself away as the culprit.

He had been seeking to make things right with his Loa, who had slowly been stripping him of different parts of his being, including his faithful companion Kazi.

Doc'tah Zel'wah led the way into the cave and as the Loa was called, he was able to ward the onlookers so that when Halazzi appeared he was forced to inhabit

Zel'wah himself. The Loa was not pleased but grudgingly Pogo'pogo was at least given his vision back and no longer wears an eyepatch... and Halazzi's blessing, though none are certain that is a good thing.

Redwood Tribes News

Skyseer's View

I am Okwaho Skyseer, adviser to the Redwood Tribes, Seer of the Earthen Ring, and speaker to the editor that writes these words.

Well, Peace was doing pretty well, while we were at Thunder Bluff at the Festival of ... Peace.

Then we went to learn more of the Hand of Lordaeron; we had even thought to invite them to a Rites of Passage to deepen the bonds of the Horde. And then one Deathlord slaughtered one of his officers... with seemingly no reason for those of us in attendance.

Now the Eastern Kingdoms seem in utter disarray, a trial is on the horizon, and it seems as if forgiveness is held only in the heart of one man, one Gabriel Ross.

The Tribes, The Outriders, The Hand themselves gather, peace forgotten in the strike of a sword.

Trust sits on the edge of that same sword... which way will it fall?
