Water Contamination in Feralas

4.1.2020 The Steam Pools

Contributor: Lorewalker Joenn

An inaugural beach party at the Steam Pools in Feralas, Kalimdor, took a disturbing turn when two of the resort staff, a pair of Gilnean citizens, began exhibiting erratic behavior. Partway into the evening the two abandoned the party and ran off. Their current whereabouts are unknown.

These worgen were under the employment of the goblin tycoon Lluagor, who kept his newest staff in line with a dog whistle. After the worgen fled, he flatly denied any association with either of them and tried to keep his resort guests focused on the entertainment. A handful of guests attempted to find the missing worgen on their own, but to no avail.

Later into the evening, the guests began to show strange behavior as well. Many were overtaken by an uncontrollable urge to dance, even when sitting or lying down. After continued dancing, these guests grew fatigued and had difficulty recalling where they were or how long they had been there. Some guests suspect a contamination in their beverages may have been the cause of these dancing fits.

The guests had been attracted to the beach party by ad posters supposedly written by Blue Recluse bartender Baast Duskwing, who did not make an appearance that evening. Hostess Magnolia O'Hara was quick to point out that the handwriting on the posters did not match Baast's penmanship. Questions circulated about who had printed them, and to what purpose.

Beside the unexplained events of the evening, resort guests expressed dissatisfaction with the cleanliness of the beach water, and did not seem interested when resort host Lluagor attempted to solicit investment in his timeshare.

The Big Story

and Attracts a New Visitor
4.1.2020 Bloodhoof Village

Tall Tales Organizer Maholta Firetotem made a quick adjustment at their last get together when a The Ashen Vale representative appeared. Lorewalker Joenn was more than interested and sat listening to each story as told by various Horde representatives...

Maybe it is time to meet in Suramar again and share more stories from both Horde and Alliance?

Chief's Corner

Greetings all!

More and more I am seeing the banners of Horde and Alliance across the battlefield from one another. Do you grow restless awaiting the next challenge? Just remember that when the challenge comes these will have to be the allies that stand next to you before you put a dagger between their ribs.

While the Tribe strives for peace in a war-torn world, they are willing to stomp out all the campfires across Azeroth, because they are not on the menu tonight! So, until the alliance start fishing and stop hunting Shu'halo, this is the Tribe that will stop you. They enjoy boating, especially gliding out to sea in those nice galleons sitting in the Boralus harbor, mountain climbing from Dun Morogh to the peaks of Kul-Tiras, and they always enjoy a good fight! The Tribe enjoys BBQ, as well, and will bring plenty of Firewater to share with friends... Do you want to be friends? Or enemies? The choice is yours!

Tales from an Alternate Time

The Battle for Stromgarde Keep

Click for Calendar

And Huge Thanks to Liavalle and Lafontaine for their Arbitration and Help Setting Up Battles

*3.29.2020 Arathi Highlands -
Report from Vathic the Vengeful*

Whispers of how the Alliance was pushing into Arathi Highlands with eyes on Stormguard Keep spread through the Undercity like a tide of darkness. 'Call to Arms' soon echoed off the cold stone walls of damp catacombs and crypts. I knew at once, we stood at the brink of war and the Alliance would not stop until all were vanquished before them. This must not stand I thought to myself knowing this next gale of Alliance debauchery that sweeps from the south will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms. I then shouted to my fellow forsaken, our brethren are already in the field! Why stand we here idle? What is it that Horde wishes? What would they have? Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Nay I say, I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me Azeroth or give me last death! I then saddled up my undead steed and rode south with fellow forsaken soldiers to meet the advancing army. May the Dark Lady watch over us.

We arrived on the plains of Arathi that evening and formed a line of battle, many guilds were represented, Redwood tribes, Little Dragons, Blacktooth Grin, and my fellow forsaken The Hand of Lordaeron, among others. I spat on the ground and sized up the enemy. I looked South across the golden fields and could see the Alliance forming an imposing line of their own, an eerie feeling came over me, we were outnumbered.

Among glinting blades in the evening sun I could see the Dwarves of Ironforge, Humans from Stormwind, Night Elves of Damassus, and a pungent sickening smell descended over us all, Gnomes... The drums of war thundered and with breathtaking speed the opposing forces closed. FOR THE HORDE!

The melee was quick and I soon found myself face down in the dirt with a size 5 dwarven boot print on the back of my head. (As I laid there I began to ponder what life choices had brought me to this point). I respawned and rejoined the bloodbath, but it was too late, the battle was lost.

The Dark Lady bequeaths us pleasure to seek revenge in so many ways, remember this. We are forsaken, forgotten, the children of the grave, we will not be denied our sovereign duty of righteousness and revenge. We the Forsaken shall rise through death and fulfill our destiny over all of Azeroth. To all who condemn I say nigh unto them, our time will come.

The fallen will be avenged.

Hurricane Takes Valley of Honor... Until Ironsworn Regiment Arrives

04.09.2020 Valley of Honor, Orgrimmar

While some of the Horde's more determined citizens braved Blackwing Lair, Hurricane rode through Orgrimmar, holding up in the valley of Honor, attempting to goad fewer Horde forces to foolishly enter the valley amid sapper charges and frost traps.

Several Horde forces, Atal'Alarion, Redwood Tribes, Blacktooth Grin, Shattered Company and anyone not attacking the Mountain in the Eastern Kingdoms, held against a few pushes keeping Hurricane bottled in the Valley of Honor until Ironsworn Regiment, led by Renosh, rode valiantly through Orgrimmar and cleared the way into the Valley of Honor for the rest of the Hordes weary forces. wifes. Bodies littered the ground as Horde forces prepared for a second battle within the valley itself, and battle came again... after Alliance blood was shed again, Horde combatants shared smiles and well-earned congratulations.

The Alliance may think they can infiltrate and command any land they will, they will find the Horde continuing to rise and continue to fight with Strength and Honor!

Elder Pogo'pogo and Keeper Branharak made another expedition, leading Horde members to a lucky fishing spot with a never-ending fishing hole. If it is one thing, members of the Horde enjoy, it is fishing... and drinking, of course. They go hand in hand and this trip was no exception. The only surprise... the fishing location was in Elwynn Forest close enough to smell the sewers of Stormwind. Where will our Explorers adventure next?

Hand of Lordaeron and Friends Arrive at the Altar of Storms

Zen'a Prepares to Call Akunda

Akunda, Loa of Storms and New Beginnings, arrived in Darkshore inhabiting his priestess Zen'a. He answered questions for several participants, however, the specific memories that had been sought, those belonging to Gabriel Ross of his lover Father Lyle Brooks, which all present hoped to see restored, were not recovered... yet. The memories had apparently been stripped away and secreted in a phylactery. While getting the memories returned continues to be a priority, there is no lessening of devotion between Lyle and Gabriel as all present at the ceremony can attest. And the bonds between Redwood Tribes and the Hand of Lordaeron grow stronger in the meantime.

Redwood Rescue: A Missing Druid

03.28.2020 Moonglade

Sauromoon of Redwood Tribes sent a call to the Tribes to join him on the hunt for a missing druid.

The search led to Moonglade and the Druids led the way in questioning two of the Druids spirits, a mighty Bear and ferocious feline.

It was the feral cat that pointed the way for the next leg of the journey.

Apparently, the missing druid had happened upon a troll village high in the mountains. Safety Inspector Nby and Seer Okwaho Skyseer were both already familiar with the troll village and despite warnings by new Elder Pogo'pogo of the Tribes, it appears the trail will be followed regardless of what trouble the trolls had already upset on the first fateful visit to the Village of Dancing Trolls. Will the disappearance of Cenarion Circle Druid be connected by the dark magics already practiced in the strange village? The Search Continues...

Thunder Bluff Debate Society: The Druid Code Called into Question

04.08.2020 Elder Rise, Thunder Bluff

Fireworks at another event hosted by the Thunder Bluff Debate Society. The Druid Code was called into question and appears that the Code is not valid in the eyes of many of the Horde. The debate held in the Druid's tent on Elder Rise, Hamuul Runetotem watched on as Nby and Sauromoon defended the Code against Orc, Troll and even their own Seer and other Shu'halo present.

Perhaps the Debate Society should take on a less pressing issues, such as whether the elevators at Undercity are dangerous before they continue to rip the Horde apart! At least we can all agree on that!

Azeroth War Campaign

What is it?

RP-PVP

At the heart of it, Clan Hammersong and Redwood Tribes nailed it at the Battle of Bael Modan. A series of 3 battles, best 2 out of 3 wins the contested territory.

The territory can be a small town, a mine, forest, or whatever small area that a Guild thinks will give them an edge as we fight for control of Azeroth.

This is the game within the game as we build the history of Azeroth together.

Fight with Honor and expect to dance and drink with friends when the contest is complete.

Redwood Tribes News

Skyseer's View

I am Okwaho Skyseer, adviser to the Redwood Tribes, Seer of the Earthen Ring, and speaker to the editor that writes these words.

The Tribes grow stronger as does our Alliances. The key appears to be understanding and cultural awareness. To this end the Tribes were able to obtain permission to put on the Thunder Bluff Peace Festival. It is the hope of the Shu'halo people that some of the confusion of the last few seasons will be cleared up.

Yes, the Shu'halo seek Peace, but never doubt that we are ready for battle without any hesitation until there is Peace for all!

But still, we offer this opportunity for the Horde to enjoy our crafts, our food, and other festivities that have made Thunder Bluff and the Shu'halo People famous!
