Stormwind Disaster

Fire at the Blue Recluse

3.11.2020 Stormwind City

Contributor: Lorewalker Joenn

A fire broke on Wednesday, the 11th day of the month, at the Blue Recluse tavern in Stormwind's Mage District. The cause of the fire is believed at this time to be arson. The suspect, a Sin'dorei female, was spotted fleeing the scene soon after the blaze erupted with several enraged Recluse patrons in pursuit.

None of the patrons in attendance sustained permanent injuries, and the fire was quenched before it could spread to other buildings in the district. The damage to the Blue Recluse itself seems to be superficial in nature, and the tavern staff are hard at work preparing the bar for reopening. They were not available for comment at this time.

It is not known whether the arsonist acted alone or with a partner, but Stormwind's residents are urged to report any suspicious activity to the nearest guardsman immediately. At this time the suspect is still at large, and should be considered armed and extremely dangerous.

One of the patrons at the bar that night was Baast Duskwing, a veteran of the Second War, who was celebrating the first week of her vacation. Magnolia O'Hara, the Recluse's current hostess, is encouraging Stormwind's residents to come in and try her new chili recipe as soon as the doors are open again.

Greetings all!

I have noticed a lot more fighting of late between Alliance and Horde. I understand if you are preparing yourselves for what is to come, but I feel like you are still continuing a war that will never end... Well, until the End comes, have fun, stay safe, and look out for one another even as you cross-blades. You never know when you will need each other regardless of the tabard you wear.

Tales from an Alternate Time

Will Cannibalism Bring the Horde to its Knees?

Click for Calendar

3.18.2020 Thunder Bluff

Kan'Dy Opens Before a Packed House

Friendly Debate v. Aggressive Audience at Thunder Bluff Debate Society

Thunder Bluff Debate Society takes on another Hot Topic! Cannibalism!

The Darkspear were asked to discontinue the practice and the Forsaken are torn between a physical need and remembering their pre-Forsaken past lives.

Kan'Dy of Atal'Alarion and Lyle Brooks of Hand of Lordaeron presented their cases well concerning Forsaken need, respect for their ways, and personal choice, while Branharak Skybreaker did his best to defend a history of hate against centaurs and their skins littering the tents of multiple Shu'halo and Orc homes. Use all the parts of a kill indeed!

When asked what the points of these debates have been, Okwaho Skyseer defended the debates, "This is about learning more about each other's cultures and finding common ground. This is what the Warchief has asked of the Horde, and the High Chieftain's primary mission for Redwood Tribes existence. This growth of the Horde must come through respectful discourse, or we can just keep fighting each other and watch the Alliance laugh and gloat while they rally against us."

Father Lyle Brooks and Branharak Skybreaker Exchange Ideas

Kan'Dy asks Skybreaker some Hard Questions

The following quotes were either presented during the debate by audience members, or stated afterwards by attendees who wished to remain anonymous.

"Yeah, I went all the way to Thunder Bluff to watch a debate. Now I want nothing to do with these Trolls that live in the next village down the road."

"I never knew so many Forsaken were against Cannibalism!"

"Eating corpses is the only way we can replenish," Blackplague made clear during his turn to make a statement.

"I bet that Cowmon' got de centaur rug in his tent. Need one o' my own in fact."

"How does Troll cannibalism serve the Horde? I thought particularly Darkspear gave up their cannibalistic ways when they joined the Horde, is this not true? Do the trolls here not respect their agreements?" Nessima asked after providing her own views on the matter.

As the evening grew long, despite calls for respecting one another quite often through the debates, a fight broke out between an Orc of Redwood and the representative for the Forsaken and blood was close to spilling before Lyle Brooks and Branharak Skybreaker both intervened.

Angry Seer Throws Restraint Behind the Kodo Barn! Master Chef Run-Off from Social Gathering

03.20.2020 Crossroads, The Barrens

The Weekly Circle, a social gathering in Crossroads run by Redwood Tribes saw many new faces and several visitors... but too soon after the Cannibalism Debate, things reached a boiling point again.

An Orc Youngling of the Tribes, headstrong and fiercely holding to his beliefs, verbally assaulted the Hand of Lordaeron's new Master Chef, one Paulie Walnuts, causing even more trouble for the Tribes' Seer, Okwaho Skyseer, to try to repair... as if anyone can repair noodles torn in twain after they have already been cooked.

The Seer known for his temper had already stopped one fight with a well-timed war stomp but the insults continued and the Tribes' honor dwindled as the indignant Master Chef departed the gathering.

Arriving late, Father Lyle Brooks, featured speaker at the debates and pre-warned of the conflict was unable to corner the Youngling due to Chieftain Brightmane intervention... taking the Orc away for a schooling behind the Crossroads Inn.

Can the break be mended between Hand of Lordaeron and Redwood Tribes or did the gravy just fail to come together from their previous negotiations?

Cannibal Cookout

03.22.2020 Brill, Tirisfal Glades - Okwaho's Redemption Tale

For the readers paying close attention to the stories above, one more insult to injury remained for the Honorable Shu'halo of Redwood Tribes and that was Father Lyle Brooks of Hand of Lordaeron announcing a cookout... a cannibal cookout.

When the scrolls were posted with the event information, it was as if the Hand had slapped the face of the Tribe's Shu'halo one and all for the lack of Honor and Understanding shown to their guests at the previous events!

Gin'jojo Forms the Line for the Spicy Gnome Gumbo

With utmost trepidation, I, Okwaho Skyseer, Seer to Redwood Tribes, made my way to Tirisfal Glades to make an appearance and to clear Redwood's Shu'halo name among our allies in the Horde, and with those in our own Tribe. From the outset, Redwood was tasked to bring the Tribes of Kalimdor together. Add in the outreach program by the Archdruid Hamuul Runetotem to accept the Forsaken into the Horde, and these past few moons had cast a long shadow on the hearty frames of the nature loving Shu'halo. Could we recover?

Another Line Forms

Welcome to de Cookout, Mon

Forsaken and Trolls Sharing Is Caring!

When I arrived, the party had definitely slowed up from the initial rush. I was greeted by the Master Chef himself in Brill and we made our way to the camping area set up just outside the Ominous Undercity itself. He and everyone present were very welcoming, though some were surprised I had come. I was more sure than ever I had made the right decision to come, and I learned from Father Lyle Brooks that they had cooked some dishes just for visitors like myself that preferred non-man dishes and he expressed surprise that more Shu'halo had not come out.

I was offered a choice of two immediately, and chose the Roast Raptor from the Master Chef, and then a side dish of noodles from Blackplague.. Now, I noticed that a couple of items were removed to make the dish more to my liking and I am grateful for that. (I thought it was a garnish of eyeballs, but sometimes fish is served that way, too, and it not part of the dish.) Later fresh Redgill was also served. A fine meal for any Shu'halo appetite; though the noodles had a strange consistency, the sauce was superb and overall I was glad I had made the effort to support our friends and allies.

There was almost a further incident when Safety Inspector Nby arrived and wanted to make sure the cooking fire and the dishes were prepared up to code, but with Master Chef Paulie Walnuts that was cleared up on the spot and we were able to continue drinking.

I will continue to advocate for understanding and acceptance within the Horde! We have enough enemies without cutting each other down... and above all we must remember that we are the Horde, not dishonorable and judgmental Alliance!

A Little Late but we Run into Master Chef Paulie Walnuts

By The Earth Mother's scruffy mane, that was a save.

The Wandering Water Hole and The Travelling Tavern appeared just as the Roadhouse tour guide seemed to be having a delusional moment in the abysmal heat of Thousand Needles... Many wondered who would put a bar on a boat in the middle of the salt flats and why had the tour guide pulled them to a stop in this location.

But Okwaho's newest and yet another Best Friend suddenly appeared and served drinks all around... and somehow, The Travelling Tavern also showed up to serve the two dwarves and a gnome that appeared to join the tour.

That gnome seems to have found a Shu'halo to attach itself, too!

Incredibly reasonable bar tab to the right! Highly recommend both Wandering Water Hole and Travelling Tavern at your next gathering.

What is it?

RP-PVP

At the heart of it, Clan Hammersong and Redwood Tribes nailed it at the Battle of Bael Modan. A series of 3 battles, best 2 out of 3 wins the contested territory.

The territory can be a small town, a mine, forest, or whatever small area that a Guild thinks will give them an edge as we fight for control of Azeroth.

This is the game within the game as we build the history of Azeroth together.

Fight with Honor and expect to dance and drink with friends when the contest is complete.

Redwood Tribes News

Skyseer's View

I am Okwaho Skyseer, adviser to the Redwood Tribes, Seer of the Earthen Ring, and speaker to the editor that writes these words.

From the last Redwood News Scrolls to this one was a dangerous time, and continues to be a hard time for many in the Horde. Now more than ever we must band together and find ways to support each other, accepting our various cultures and finding ways to change our old misconceptions of each other..

We are at war, but we have been at war for so long that we think this is the only way. There is conflict in the Horde and we must be the ones to solve it. We can not wait for the Warchief, the High Chieftain, Vol'jin or the Dark Lady to solve it for us... Communication is key!
